Lean year for merchants

It's been a lean year for most businesses in Sidney and the one-day ferry strike hit local tourism badly. When the ferry stopped it was just as if a blind had been pulled down, says Saanich Peninsula chamber of commerce manager Peter Tredgett.

For four or five days things "bubbled a little", then came back to normal, he says.

The chamber's booth at John Road and Pat Bay Highway reports tourists have become more conscious of the dollar, what they're spending and how much they're getting for their money, while the booth on 1st Street, Sidney, has been busier than in previous years with three boats coming in daily on the Anacortes Sidney run.

Washington State Ferries upped its daily run from two to three ferries in June and "that's helped the situation," Tredgett says.

Currently, the chamber is working on a plan with the U.S. ferry corporation for a tour through the San Juan Islands. And because tourism is becoming increasingly important to the area the chamber is hoping to stretch the season and plan some attractions for the winter months.

Although times have been tough for merchants, Tredgett is convinced that those who are going all out to remain in business will stay the course. "There's no question, it's a lot to do with how you go about it," he says.

Meanwhile, the chamber has approved a new structure for its committees with tourism split into three sections and committees operating for the entire year. Also in the works and considered to be one of the most important developments within the chamber is the establishment of an economic development commission which will include representation from 15 people in the community.

Tredgett says it's time, too, to find out in the coming year where Sidney stands on the breakwater issue. "Either there are areas to explore — or there are not. We should find out once and for all," Tredgett says.

Community groups merge

Now in its 12th year of service, the Community Counselling Centre on 5th Street, Sidney, has merged with the Peninsula Community Association. Impetus for the move came from a suggestion by human resources that the CCC come under the umbrella of the PCA, apparently for bureaucratic reasons.

But basically nothing has changed. The CCC will stay at the same location and administer the same services to the community which includes counselling residents in the following areas — marriage, separation, family and peer relationships, depression, grief, life planning, parenting skills and values clarification.

Clients may be individuals, couples, parents, adolescents or groups, says Gwen Cashion, a volunteer consultant who, along

These movies cheaper in Sidney

If you live on the Saanich Peninsula and enjoy going to the movies, it's a big headache. First you have to drive to Victoria, find a parking spot and then maybe face a lineup. If you have small children you must pay a babysitter and by the time you've parted with $4.50 to get into the movie plus gas and other expenses, it could cost a family $35 - $40, says Bruce Prittie, 2147 Skylark Lane, Sidney.

Prittie and wife Susan help to run Sidney Film Association, now into its third season here and with a brand new location to show films each month — the auditorium at Sidney Silver Threads centre, 10030 Resthaven Drive.

The large hall at Silver Threads has everything going for it — comfortable chairs to seat 200 people, a first class PA system and a concession stand run by the centre's members selling popcorn and other goodies to munch through the movie.

And if the association succeeds in its drive to attract more patrons this season it plans on running movies every two weeks or even weekly, Prittie says.

The cost is low enough to attract moviegoers — $2 for adults, $1.50 for senior citizens and $15 only if you subscribe to the 10 movies to be shown between now and next June.

Films selected by the association represent a wide choice — One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, an award winning film starring Jack Nicholson; Coal Miner's Daughter with Sissy Spacek as the underprivileged kid who makes it to the top; Coming Home with Jane Fonda and Jon Voight; Amarcord by Fellini and Evil Under the Sun starring Peter Ustinov are some of the movies to be shown this season.

The association started by Linda and Campbell Black and Madeline Morris, first showed films in a hall on 5th Street, then the Peninsula Recreation Centre and finally in Sidney elementary school — and it was at this last location that much local support was lost, Prittie says.

The school's acoustics were poor and there was no heating. People faded away and the association showed a slight financial loss for the year.

But this year should be different, Prittie says. "We've got an area big enough to support this sort of thing and we're looking for a bigger membership."

Those who want to subscribe to the series of ten movies can mail or take a cheque for $15 to Sidney Film Association, 2147 Skylark Lane, Sidney, B.C. V8L 1Y5; present their subscription at the Sept. 18 movie, or just opt to pay $2 each time. All shows are scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday nights.

New library opens soon

The new Sidney library facility at 10091 Resthaven opens Sept. 18 with a traditional ribbon-cutting ceremony — and everyone is invited. Afterwards, there'll be refreshments — courtesy of the local Friends of the Vancouver Island Regional Library — and music by University of Victoria students.

At 1 p.m. there's half-hour free puppet show for children aged five to eight years. The show — The Fisherman and His Wife — is by the Sometime Puppeteers.

The following week has been declared Library Week in Sidney and to inaugurate the new building officials have planned the following:

- An amnesty from Sept. 20-25 during which time no fines will be charged for overdue books

- Surprise new book draws throughout the week for adult and juvenile borrowers.

- Kaleidoscope Theatre will present its fall premiere production 1 p.m. Sept. 25 in a free program of exciting theatre for all children.

The present library on Beacon Avenue will close Sept. 13 and people are asked not to return books to either location, if possible, during the moving period. Books should be returned to the new facility from Sept. 18 onwards.

The opening ceremony at the new library starts at 10 a.m. and will be attended by representatives from Sidney and North Saanich councils, the provincial government and the V.I.R.L.

Cost of the facility is estimated to be between $500,000 and $600,000 with the provincial government weighing in with a grant of some $191,000 towards construction costs. The library has been built and is shared jointly by Sidney and North Saanich councils.

Crowds cram popular fair

It gets bigger and better every year — and this year was no exception. Although some 52,000 people passed through the gate at Saanichton Fall Fair in 1981 attendance last weekend likely surpassed that figure, said North and South Saanich Agricultural Society president Sylvia Hutt.

Everything was up, and that includes entries in various sections of the fair. And people were spending money, despite the recession.

"It's unbelievable, but visitors were very definitely spending," Hutt said. The word from "commercial" people, those with booths, was that business was better than ever, she added.

"All events at the fairground have just been surrounded every time we looked — it's been absolutely great," Hutt said.

Some 40 - 50 people organized the three-day fair and there were no problems, not even with parking. Everything has gone very smoothly, Hutt said late Monday afternoon as the fair was drawing to a close.

After 114 years organizers have got the fair down to a fine art and there's little that can be done to improve it but Hutt said a tea garden introduced this year was "packed."

with three other consultants — Dr. Ron Penner, Jack Thoinburg and Estelle Zavaglia — assesses clients before they're taken over by volunteer counsellors.

Volunteer lay counsellors are trained by consultants in an ongoing program and some have been working with CCC for many years — Dee Bailin has clocked up 10 years of service with the organization.

Counsellors also lead various groups — the Women's Support Group, for example, where women, often in middle age, are seeking personal growth. There is room for more in this group.

The Parents of Adolescents group is for moms and dads and is "flourishing" says office manager and volunteer co-ordinator Donna Godwin; the Parents Support Group for people with young children is co-sponsored by Capital Families and the STEP program — Systemic Training for Effective Parenting was originally sponsored by the CCC but is so popular it has grown to the point where meetings are held elsewhere.

Programs the CCC is either planning or considering include classes for parents on birth to adolescence; another "personal growth" series; Adult to Aging, which would likely include counselling for elderly shut-ins; and in the talking stage — a program to assist people in their economic situations, taking in retirement, making wills, etc.

The centre's organizers are seeking input from the public on these suggested programs — just phone 656-1247 or call at the CCC office, 9813 - 5th St.

The number of people who take advantage of counselling services at CCC fluctuates and the recessions doesn't seem to have made any difference to the demand for help, Cashion says. However, she believes that may be because the CCC's profile is low in the community — something the group would like to see changed.

But although many may not know the counselling help exists, the feeling within the group itself is "most community-minded, it's people helping people, and a very warm, comfortable feeling among board members and counsellors," Cashion says. Even the homely little house in which the group conducts its business "exudes warmth," she adds.

The office is staffed with volunteers afternoons — and they're always needing more. Anyone who can spare time once a week for three hours or even once a month should contact the office.

There is a fee schedule for people seeking counselling, but the group insists that people only pay if they can and many people don't pay anything. The charge for an initial interview is entirely dependent upon ability to pay, Cashion says.

And Godwin stresses — if youngsters or teenagers want someone to talk to they will never be turned away, regardless of ability to pay.

The CCC board is led by president Akiko Shewring, board members include Jim Black, Ralph Brinkhurst, Dan Cashion, Gwen Cashion, Edith Gardner, Janice Norton, Wilf Sigurdson, Dee Bailin, Anne Johnston and Evelyn Goss.

Now that fall is here, heating systems are being put into operation and if they have not been properly serviced, malfunction can occur with inconvenient or disastrous results.

Have your oil burner checked by a competent service man. Have the smoke pipe cleaned.

Ensure that your chimneys and fireplaces are clean and creosote removed to prevent a chimney fire.

Don't let dust accumulate on baseboard electric heater elements.

Remember too that when you go to sleep your nose does too. Don't count on smelling smoke in the house, so that you will awaken and get out. It just won't happen that way.

However, a good smoke detector is on duty 24 hours a day.

Many experts believe that if smoke detectors were installed in every home we would not have a single death by fire in the home. Smoke detectors are critical life saving devices provided they are well maintained. Make sure yours works properly. If you haven't got one, get one, but be sure it is approved by C.S.A., U.L.C. or U.L. for peace of mind and a restful sleep.

Stores, homes robbed

Sidney RCMP are investigating theft of two cassette recorders and two cassette players valued at a total $3,500 stolen from Island Video on Beacon Ave. Sept. 1. Sidney Natural Foods adjacent to Island Video was also broken into but police said nothing was taken. Entry was gained by smashing a window.

Four private residences in Sidney were also entered with cash under $100 and liquor stolen from one, $30 cash and $3,000 worth of jewellery taken from another, more jewellery, including some rings were reported stolen from another residence and a man who left his house for two hours returned to find his television missing.

An outboard motor valued at $800 was also stolen from a boat docked at Westport Marina.

Fishing derby Saturday

Sidney Anglers new members derby kicks off at dawn Saturday with weigh-in at 3 p.m. in Tulista Park on Lochside Drive. PUBLIC NOTICE

The new joint Public Library, Resthaven Drive, Sidney, will be officially opened on Saturday, September 18, 1982 with ceremonies commencing at 10 A.M. The Councils of the town of Sidney and District of North Saanich invite the residents of both communities to attend.

Following the opening ceremonies, refreshments will be served, tours of the building will be conducted, and there will be children's entertainment.

Sylvester's more fun

Tammy Johnson spent some 28 hours and used $200 worth of materials to make a 12-foot high stuffed cat — but it was worth it. She sold it for $350 at Saanichton Fall Fair and plans to make another cat with the proceeds and raffle it for the Variety Club.

Tammy, 16, of 6980 East Saanich Road, made an identical cat last year for the Variety Club Telethon and, in fact, has been making and selling small soft animals toys since she was 14. And she wouldn't mind doing it for a living, she says. "It's more fun than working in a sandwich shop."

She and her father, Carl, designed the Sylvester-style cat which is stuffed with 51 pounds of foam chips and covered with black and white fur.

For shame

It was one of those rare occasions recently when management and the B.C. Government Employees' Union were in complete accord — but we're told both sides are "frantically" trying to keep the incident quiet.

The union was picketing at Pat Bay Airport but there was firm agreement that if an air ambulance was needed the BCGEU would provide a pilot. And at Pat Bay that day, early in the morning, there was a captain and a junior co-pilot on duty.

Then it happened. There was an emergency — a baby in Premier Bennett's Kelowna riding was suffering from a congenital heart problem and emergency health services were asked to fly the child to Vancouver for treatment.

The captain refused to fly, an action our source says the BCGEU terms "disgusting and disgraceful." The junior co-pilot also refused but it was the captain who was condemned in no uncertain terms by union members.

Senior union officials were brought in and raked the captain over the coals but the pilot refused to budge. Eventually another pilot was found and the mercy flight was made.

But the man who refused to fly has apparently earned the contempt of union members. And ours.

It's been a big year for Saanich Peninsula chamber of commerce, one in which the organization has taken some giant strides. It's achievements include construction of a tourist booth on Pat Bay Highway, soon to be the location of the chamber office, and the successful wooing and subsequent inclusion of Central Saanich merchants as members of the chamber.

Another achievement can be noted in the current spirit of co-operation that exists today between the chamber and Sidney council. For some time in the past the chamber seemed to be engaged in a running battle with council but fences have been mended. We believe much can be achieved if the two work together.

Now an efficient and purposeful body, the chamber is putting together final plans for an economic development commission and is studying ways to improve tourism on the Saanich Peninsula. We think a beach walkway and a mini-Sealand — modelled on Bob Wright's Oak Bay attraction — would keep visitors around longer. And how about boat trips and cruises around local islands?

The potential for a healthier tourist economy in Sidney has always existed. The recession and sagging economy might just provide the impetus at this time for our revitalized chamber to put ideas into action.

By MARY KIERANS

Simultaneous bafflement and entertainment is an art that conjurers perform with apparent ease and consummate grace. In Night Probe, Clive Cussler proves himself to be just such a master magician. He causes people to appear in two separate places at the same time, completes the reincarnation of James Bond, and makes the passengers, crew and rolling stock of an entire train disappear for three-quarters of a century.

In 1989, the United States, near bankruptcy and faced with an enormous energy shortage, is further threatened by the breakup of Canadian confederation and the possible loss of hydro-electric power from James Bay.

A chance reference to a secret U.S.-U.K. treaty of 1914 that sold Canada to the U.S. appears to be the only possible solution: U.S. Annexation of Canada. Recovery of one of the only two known copies of the treaty either from a shipwreck in the St. Lawrence River or from a train wreck in the Hudson River becomes the responsibility of Dirk Pitt, the hero of Cussler's earlier novels.

In an attempt to conceal the provisions of the unconsummated treaty, the British government reactivates a retired secret agent to sabotage the recovery attempts.

Aside from the normal doses of sex, murder and mayhem, the book also offers exciting diving scenes, high-order Canadian political duplicity and a pitched battle between British and U.S. marines.

Cussler has once again proved himself an enthralling storyteller who is a master of both sustained action and the misleading clue.

Night Probe is now available through either the Sidney-North Saanich or Brentwood branch of the regional library.

We welcome letters to the editor but to be considered for publication they must bear name, address and telephone number of the writer. Letters may be edited for clarity and brevity.

Library thief

May I address an open letter to those who see fit to mutilate library books, or any books for that matter?

It is an act of vandalism no less reprehensible than any which destroys public property, be it trees, mailboxes, windows, or whatever.

One book in mind is a biography of Virginia Woolf, of interest mostly to those familiar with the Bloomsbury Group, therefore to borrowers with a more serious turn of mind.

One would think that the privilege of being able to borrow such a volume would encourage respect for the printed word and respect for one's fellow townsfolk who may also wish to enjoy this book.

As it is, the volume is useless and may as well go into garbage.

No less than 24 pages have been removed from a total of 116. Far better perhaps to have kept the whole book, but sneak thieves fear detection, no doubt.

Whoever you are, may your conscience prod you into repaying the library $12.95 for the damage.

Sign me "very angry and disgusted."

Frank Snowsell, recently elected as MLA for Saanich, told a CCF picnic at Sidney that his party could bear Social Credit any time in any riding. The new premier, W.A.C. Bennett, promptly challenged him to resign his seat and test the matter in a byelection.

The Bank of Montreal is purchasing a valuable piece of Beacon Ave. property upon which to erect a modern bank block in Sidney.

Rom Knott was elected president of the Brentwood Community Club, succeeding V.C. Dawson.

Sidney and North Saanich chamber of commerce presented to Sidney village council a petition signed by more than 10 per cent of ratepayers asking for a plebescite to approve the establishment of a regional library.

A combination of good weather, improved facilities and new attractions helped the two-day Saanich Fair to a record attendance of 12,000.

Hugh Curtis, elected by a landslide vote to represent Saanich and the Islands, is not worried about his effectiveness as one of two Progressive Conservative members of the Legislature.

"I would think from what I know of Dave Barrett that I will be given a fair hearing on behalf of the riding," says the former Saanich mayor.

Working drawings for the Saanich Peninsula Hospital on Mt. Newton Cross Road are expected to be completed by the end of September, said Louis Lindholm, president of the Saanich Peninsula Hospital Society.

After years of flashing lighted barricades, "slow to 30" and "left lane closed" signs, completion of the Patricia Bay Highway was predicted for mid October, provided that rain did not delay the paving.

Before I get going today, please let me apologize to Sidney and North Saanich Garden Club for not knowing about their fall show soon enough to mention its forthcoming date. Now it is too late! It was a spectacular show, attracting a number of Victoria exhibitors, and some from as far away as Sooke. There was live music, a delicious tea, and everything was displayed in a most professional manner. All in all, one of the best garden shows I have seen. Its organizers deserve a lot of praise!

Today let's start with a host of small nagging reminders . . . you know . . . "things to do today" sort of thing.

First of all try to keep everything picked. Things like beans or peas are much tastier if they are on the small side. If you leave them to get large, they tend to be tough, and nine times out of ten the plants stop flowering, and that's curtains for the beans for this year!

The same thing applies to your flowers . . . if you will take the dying blooms off petunias, for example, the plants will keep on blossoming. I know this is a nuisance and petunia flowers are so sticky . . . but try using the scissors and it's not so bad. You'll be pleased with the results.

Roses, of course, thrive when you dead-head them regularly. Talking about roses, the spray we've found to be the least obvious on the leaves, and still does a very good job on black spot and mildew is Funginex. Benlate leaves such a milky residue you might just as well have the mildew . . . mind you Benlate certainly works!

Do swat as many of those Marsh Crane flies as you can. These pests are those long-limbed spindly creatures wafting about the place by the hundreds right now. In ancient times we used to refer to them as Daddy-longlegs and think they were kind of cute.

Knowledge, in this case, brought acute disillusionment.

These fragile looking bugs with their inadequate wings are related to the Mafia, and a very real menace (to lawns, especially). The eggs of these Marsh Crane flies hatch out into some of the most disgusting looking beasts you will find in your garden. They appear to have no head nor tail, no eyes, no legs . . . sort of like a fat brown worm about an inch long at maturity.

At this stage of their life cycle they are called Leatherjackets and are bent on destroying your lawn, and everything else in their path.

Treatment consists of an expensive application of liquid Diazinon, soaking the soil of any affected area to a depth of an inch. Time of application is October . . . preferably shortly after a rain, or a good session with the sprinkler.

If you are having trouble with mildew on your squash plants, do try something that is so simple I wonder why I didn't do it years ago. Mix about a teaspoon of lime-sulphur into a one quart spray bottle, add a bit of liquid soap as a sticker, and give your plants a thorough covering. It really works! Lime-sulphur is one half of the dormant spray used on your fruit trees . . . the other half being the oil, remember?

Don't forget to put your squashes up on an inverted pot, and do the same thing for any tomatoes hanging too close to the ground. Nice to have the latter ripening on the vine, isn't it? Just about the best taste in the garden is a big, warm, fully ripe tomato, just picked, and eaten right there in the vegetable patch . . . no salt or anything.

We have had a couple of canteloupes out of the greenhouse, and one honeydew melon, plus another sort of exotic taste, an artichoke . . . the "globe" one that has such a delightful flavour when cooked and then dipped in butter. No wonder I can't lose weight! I planted these artichokes in the greenhouse in the spring, and only put three plants out in the garden to mature. What a mistake!

They have done very well, and 10 plants wouldn't have been too many. Never mind, these should continue to fruit for at least three years, and 10 would ruin our figures entirely.

Don't forget to get your onions thoroughly dried — out in the sun when possible, and don't neglect to bring them in every evening. Nag, nag!! Time to sow those winter vegetables . . . things like Brussel sprouts, broccoli, cauliflower and cabbage. Buy the plants at this time, it's too late for seed, but you could still plant some kale or chard seed now. It may not do a lot this fall, but will supply early spring greens.

How about a few lettuce seeds, just a few, plus a dozen or so radishes? They like the cooler fall weather, and very soon will be getting expensive to buy at the supermarket.

Time now to give some thought to bringing your house plants inside for the . . . ugg . . . winter. More on this next time.

Handy Dart is coming to town . . . or is it? Representatives from B.C. Transit Authority, the Capital Regional District, and the Custom Transit Advisory Committee will be in attendance at a meeting to be held Thursday at Resthaven Lodge from 7 to 9 p.m. Examine the buses which will be parked outside the lodge and then be ready to have all your questions answered by those on the panel.

In a nutshell, the eventual level of service on the peninsula will be dependent upon the response at this meeting and it is imperative the community express the growing need for this type of transportation, both in to Victoria and around the peninsula, for medical appointments, shopping, and for visiting friends.

All are valid reasons for requesting Handy Dart and its door-to-door service, at a very reasonable cost. We at PCA want a very loud expression of the need for a bus one day a week because at the moment citizens in need are having to cancel appointments because of insufficient volunteer drivers — especially drivers with the physical ability to lift wheelchairs and with vehicles of a size capable of carrying them.

If we say "no" what happens if there is no Handy Dart service? Think of it . . . then come to tomorrow night's meeting if you are handicapped, if you know or can bring someone else who is, or if you are concerned for the future of our peninsula handicapped.

Tsehum Harbor . . .

Tsehum Harbour at the north end of Saanich Peninsula is one of Vancouver Island's busiest waterways for pleasure boats, but despite the traffic it's sheltered waters are ideal for canoeists and kayakers.

A trip around the harbour and through the myriad channels between the islands off the north end of the peninsula offers a glimpse of some of southern Vancouver Island's finest marine scenery.

Along the route you'll find more than half a dozen marinas, two harbour seal rookeries, and several good cod jigging grounds.

There are two good launching points — the government wharf off Resthaven Drive and a tiny beach off Tryon Road past Westport Marina. From either of these launch areas you can paddle further into the harbor for a look at some of Greater Victoria's most expensive floating real estate.

At the head of the harbor is Blue Heron Basin, an important feeding ground for great blue herons and various diving ducks and seabirds. Eagles are a common sight anywhere in the harbor, especially along the shores of Curteis Point.

It's not uncommon to be followed by a few curious harbor seals as you explore the bays and marinas near the head of the harbor. There's a sizeable seal rookery directly across the harbor from Van Isle Marina where some reefs are exposed at low tide.

A canoeist or kayaker can usually sneak up to within a few boat-lengths of sunbathing seals but it's not advisable to paddle downwind of them.

The harbor is always alive with nautical-type activity — pleasure boaters scrubbing their decks or boozing it on the bridge, fishermen mending their nets at Fishermen's Wharf, or kids fishing for shiners around old pilings.

Follow the Curteis Point shoreline around the point toward Canoe Cove and into the channels across from Canoe Cove Marina. There can be strong tides in the channels and rather uncomfortable wash from larger vessels but careful canoeists rarely encounter difficulty.

If you hug the shore as far as the marina you can paddle directly across to Toad Island and circumnavigate both Toad and Fernie Islands. If it's calm and you're ambitious you could paddle all the way around Goudge, or even Coal Island, but you'll have to watch the water.

There's good cod fishing near the kelp beds, most notably near the end of the harbor, off the southeast tip of Fernie Island, along the Coal Island shore in Iroquois Pass, and between Canoe Cove and Goudge Island.

Cormorants perch atop the rocks near Canoe Cove and spread their wings to dry in the breeze. Harbor seals use the same rocks to loll about in the afternoon sun.

Some canoeists use Tsehum Harbor as a point from which to begin island hopping to Sidney Island. They launch at Fisherman's Wharf and paddle the shoreline to Armstrong Point then scoot across the mouth of the harbor to Ker Island. From Ker it's a straight shot to the northern tip of Sidney Spit, but it can be a dangerous crossing in rough seas or when tides are running full force.

Other small boaters are content to paddle around Armstrong Point toward Sidney and stop for a few beers at the Sidney Hotel.

Charts and compass are unnecessary but they can make the expedition more interesting. The Canadian Hydrographic chart for Tsehum Harbor is #3455. It's wise to pack a litre of water as canoeing in the sun dehydrates most paddlers.

Spooner's LADIES WEAR

FRAN

For nearly seven years now, customers have been coming from all over the Saanich Peninsula and even Victoria to choose their clothes at Spooner's Ladies wear, until recently at the corner of West Saanich Road and Verdier in Brentwood and now also at the corner of Beacon and Third Avenue in Sidney.

That's two locations to serve you, with Fran Spooner in charge of the Brentwood store and Carol looking after the new store in Sidney.

Both stores are elegantly appointed, spacious and airy and contain the latest in fashions, styles and colours from major fashion houses in Canada and Europe.

While only located in Sidney for some 10 months, Carol's artistic touch is already showing along with her skill in co-ordinating the "younger look fashions" — although clothing for all ages is available at both stores.

The Spooners are proud of their Junior dresses and sportswear (Junior is a size, not an age), and their Petite collection (sizes 6 - 16 for the smaller figure).

Altogether, Spooner's is a pleasant place indeed, at either location, to assemble your wardrobe.

Come in soon, look around, choose from styles from Koret, Tan Jay, Mr. Leonard, Bianca (exclusive on the Peninsula), Sottles, Seawind, and many more. Browse through the racks and best of all, take your time at both Brentwood and Sidney stores — we look forward to seeing you.

RIMPAC DIVERS

What more beautiful location for a diving shop than the Saanich Peninsula. To take an extract from a diver's notes:

"At 50 feet we stopped swimming and doused our lights. One of our group swam towards us with a powerful dolphin kick. The result was a vaguely human shape moving rapidly towards and then over us, trailing strands of green fire from every part of his body."

This experience can be yours — Rimpac Divers owned and operated by Doug and Joyce DeProy since spring, 1981, has been in operation for many years handling professional scuba diving equipment, sales and rentals, air station services, and providing scuba lessons from beginners level through advanced dives.

On staff are fully qualified professional divers who can perform underwater repairs of any nature to your boat or property.

The shop, located at 9818 - 5th Street, sometimes resembles more a museum than a diving shop, with artifacts, sea ornaments, etc., brought up from the depths on display.

The nature of the sport itself provides for a friendly and relaxed atmosphere and this is what you will find when you drop in at Rimpac — Joanne, Steve and Dan — and proprietors Doug and Joyce are there to provide you with congenial service and answer any questions you may have on this rapidly growing pastime.

come on down, down, down and see us soon, hours are 9 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. seven days a week.

Sound Elektron Systems and Services Ltd

A new sound can be heard in Brentwood — Sound Elektron (located next to Lann Copeland Music Centre) at 7174A West Saanich Road, where you will find Derrick and Robin Mallard with a complete line of home stereo systems, sound reinforcement installations for halls, churches, etc., and custom installation of sound systems in your home or office.

Their busy store contains such compact and modern sound systems as Akai and Sansui — for which they are both sales and service agents. Service today is just as important as sales and Derrick Mallard is more than just a technician — he's a fully qualified electronics engineer who can look after your sound system long after it has been installed.

This top notch equipment is on display right here in Brentwood, to look at, sound out, test and ask about. See how it looks and hear how it sounds before you try it out in your home or apartment — no need to drive into Victoria anymore to purchase or enjoy this modern entertainment when the service is so personal and so close. Reel to reel decks are an important part of today's music systems and Robin and Derrick also handle these.

So look no further for your sound system — its right here in Brentwood along with that all important service — come in and browse at Sound Elektron — 7174 A West Saanich Road. Business hours are 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday to Saturday. We look forward to seeing you soon.

Paul's 'House of Portraits'

Since moving his business from Kamloops to Sidney in 1980 and initially working from his home on East Saanich Road, Paul's business has developed over these two years to the extent he has opened a studio at 2420 Beacon Ave. (opposite the Toronto-Dominion Bank) to offer you more convenient service.

Paul handles all phases of photography such as portraits, restoration of those old family heirlooms, film sales and service, framing work and five-minute passport photos.

As most of you are aware, Paul is a highly skilled award-winning photographer specializing in portraits, weddings and animals, etc.

Recognizing the need locally for quality photo-finishing that does not keep you waiting for days to see the results of your efforts, Paul has recently established a one-hour photo finishing process, under the trade name of PRONTO-PHOTO. Starting next week you will be able to bring your film in to Paul's, go for a stroll around town, shop, have lunch or whatever, then call back in an hour and pick up your top quality prints processed right on the premises — reprints will only take another 10 minutes.

Watch for the Grand Opening soon!

So for all your photography needs, from film to professional portraits, from frames to one-hour processing, Paul's House of Portraits is the place to be. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday or give Paul a call at 656-4245.

Challenge for children

Where did YOU learn your consumer habits? Most, good and bad, stem from attitudes we learned as children. Early experiences with money as well as spending habits of parents are teachers of lifelong practices.

It is important for children to have money to plan with, save and spend. In some families the source of this cash is an allowance, in others, payment for tasks done at home or in the community. As soon as children can recognize coins and show interest in money matters it is appropriate for them to begin learning the skills of money management.

Children should have freedoms in the decisions about their money. Items valued by children are usually different from those of their parents. There will be mistakes but these are an important part of learning.

Within reason, children should be aware of family financial concerns. They feel emotional tensions. Keeping control of financial concerns is a challenge and children who are informed of specific financial problems encountered in running a family are better equipped to handle money matters as adults.

Discussing and planning helps clarify the difference between wants and needs. This is important in avoiding a lifelong habit of impulse buying.

By encouraging a critical attitude, parents can help children withstand advertising and peer pressures. Talking about value and quality as related to cost, develops a sense of value. Finally, include your children in some of your marketplace experiences. Let them in on discussions about return policies and guarantees. If you have to complain about a product or service take the children with you. Through observation and experience in the family, children can become aware of their rights and responsibilities as consumers in the complex marketplace of today.

Navy offers training, jobs, summer camp and cruises

Admiral Budge Corps, Royal Canadian Sea Cadets, offers a wide variety of training and experience for boys and girls aged 13 to 19.

Those who stay with it and work at qualifying themselves can look forward to paid summer camp, staff jobs at camp, and cruises with the navy to exotic ports of call. Two of last year's senior cadets are now on their way to the Commonwealth Games in Australia aboard a destroyer.

The corps is sponsored by the Saanich Peninsula branch of the Navy League of Canada and the department of national defence. Parents are asked to join the Navy League and contribute $20 per family towards the league's costs. Otherwise the training, cruises, etc. are free.

Regular parades are held every Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Sea Cadet Hall on Wellington Rd. just west of the Pat Bay Airport terminal. To register, applicants must be 13 years of age by Dec. 31. They can be older than 13. First parade of the year is this evening, but new entries can register any Wednesday. They should be accompanied by a parent and should bring a birth certificate.

For transportation to and from meetings a bus does a regular circuit through Brentwood, Saanichton and Sidney each parade night.

Besides regular parades there are voluntary parades on Mondays, shooting on Saturday afternoons and sailing on weekends, and there are weekend events at least once a month, the first one this season being a cruise for 20 cadets on a navy auxiliary vessel.

Commander of the corps is Lt.(N) Wayne Kell, and there are five other adult officers. Senior cadet (coxswain) is Chief Petty Officer 2nd class Kevin McKechnie.

Strength of the corps at the end of last season was 30, of whom about two dozen are expected to return. Top age is 19, but after that cadets can become officers, and all Admiral Budge corps officers are former cadets.

Last year the corps rated fifth among the 33 units in B.C., and was second for corps of less than 40 cadets. They twice put on the Ceremony of Flags at the legislature on Victoria Day and Swiftsure weekends.

Annual activities include participation in the Remembrance Day parade, a weekend at Grouse Mountain, live-in weekends for first aid and other courses, a swim meet, a sports weekend, a first aid competition and summer camp.

Cadets who qualify are eligible to attend six weeks of camp in summer with pay for trades training, presently $240 a summer, and after they are 16½ can be employed as staff cadets at camp.

In recent years the corps has not had a band, but there are plans to get one started this year.

Can you recognise them? TAKE A CLOSER LOOK!

WHO ARE THEY?

They're young men and women aged 13 to 18 years involved with Canada's Royal Canadian SEA-ARMY and AIR Cadet Programmes.

DOES IT COST ANYTHING TO JOIN?

No! As a matter of fact, you get paid for attending a six week summer camp course. Uniforms are loaned at no cost.

HOW OLD DO YOU HAVE TO BE?

13 to 18 years. BUT... you can join at age 12 years if you are going to reach 13 years of age by 31 December in the year you join.

WHO SPONSORS THE PROGRAMME?

The Department of National Defence.

DO I HAVE TO BE A CANADIAN CITIZEN?

No! BUT... you must be a resident of Canada.

CAN I WITHDRAW AT ANY TIME?

Yes!

CAN I TRANSFER IF I MOVE?

Yes! Cadet Corps are located throughout Canada.

IS THERE ADVANCEMENT?

Yes! There is a rank structure and promotions are based on individual effort and merit.

WHAT COURSES CAN I TAKE?

That's like asking the $64,000.00 question. Such a wide range of courses are available only a few are listed on the other side. We have your interest at heart.

CAN I TRAVEL AND WHERE TO?

Where do you want to go? Cadets qualify for cruises throughout the world. Exchange programmes to Great Britain and Europe are also available. All of Canada is unlocked for you to travel to as well as visits to the United States.

ARE THERE VACANCIES?

Some Cadet Corps have a waiting list, so apply now.

IS IT A LARGE ORGANIZATION?

It is the largest youth organization in Canada.

I LIKE THE OPPORTUNITY. WHOM DO I CONTACT?

Join the winners for a great life

This month Sidney Air Cadets Squadron 676 move into their 25th year with pride — now they've won the top rating in B.C. for 1982 the squadron wants to remain on top and instructor Eric Lewis forecasts the next 12 months will be busy with more activities on the agenda than ever before.

Joining the air cadets can signal the beginning of a great life for youngsters — but here's a surprising thing. Many young people don't join because they have to get a haircut but Lewis says they have no idea what they're missing by wanting to hang on to their long hair.

In fact, he figures a haircut is worth $2,000 — because that's the cost of a pilot's licence, something you can obtain free by joining the squadron and passing training requirements.

From flying to bush survival, playing in the band or rifle shooting, cliff climbing, or field trips to airports and Grouse Mountain — there's something to do every week night and most weekends.

The squadron even runs a course for Duke of Edinburgh Awards which youngsters are eligible to enter after passing Canada fitness standards.

The 76 young people — young men and women aged 13-18 — in Squadron 676 have a great time, says Lewis. He urges youngsters to join and invites them to call at the Air Cadet Hall on Canora Road at Pat Bay Airport Sept. 16.

Or just come and talk, he suggests.

Lewis feels confident few will pass the opportunity up once they realize the advantages of being an air cadet.

Once cadets have finished their basic training they can attend summer camps across Canada on a wide variety of courses, he adds.

Left, you can learn to fly in Squadron 676; bottom left, proud swim team which won sportsman award this year; centre and right, rappelling is heady stuff and great fun.

Parkland Parade

By WENDY LAING

After a peaceful 2½ months, the halls at Parkland were once again pumping with life, as junior registration for grade 9 and 10s commenced yesterday. For grade 9 students, Sept. 7 always proves to be an exciting, and often mind-boggling day, but soon, calm prevails.

Today was the arena-loading process for grades 11 and 12. Now, in the minds of seniors, such as myself, it is within these two years that all counts for the future — but before the future is sought, take a look at our Parkland Panthers of summer '82.

•Parkland graduate Jennifer Lindsay travelled to Dunoon, Scotland and successfully defended her title as world champion in Highland dancing. Also, during the summer she continued teaching her own school of dance.

•Richard Myerscough made his mark at Harrison Hot Springs by becoming the B.C. windsurfing champion. He went on to place 7th out of 265 at the North American windsurfer championships hosted in San Diego.

•Lara Melville sped away from the B.C. Summer Games with a gold medal for the Pentathlon! Congratulations to her and our other Parkland Panthers, Randy Mathews, Megan Soellner, and Lana Bakewell, who gave it their all at the Games.

•Steve Rogak (Grade, '82) excelled academically this summer, by placing in the top 20 of all the provincial examinations written in B.C. For his high marks in the four exams he wrote, Steve received a $2,000 scholarship. Larry Kubek, Brian Carmichael, Claire Davey, Tracey Gurton and Jeff Wright were awarded $1,000 scholarship.

•Jack Horne of Grassroots' Theatre Co. made a superb performance in the Four Season's Musical, The Wonder of it All, in July. Not only did he act, but put his gret dancing skills to work too!

•Sidney Cadet Squadron 676, swarming with Parkland students, are number one in B.C. after accumulating an overall mark of 98 per cent.

•Parkland Piranha's swam well this summer, and as a whole the team's season was terrific! Tammy Scott placed 2nd in her total points aggregate, with Lara Melville in 3rd spot. Debbie and Andrea Sigurdson and Brad and Mark Bowler also swamhard against their opponents.

•Congratulations to all Panthers who rode to high placings at the Sunset Open

Silver Threads

Silver Threads Centrea at 10030 Resthaven is open 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. weekdays, 7 - 9 p.m. evenings and 1 - 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Lunches, teas, coffees, cards, library, billiards, wide variety craft classes, recreational activities, languages, trips and more.

If you are 60 or better Silver Threads would like to hear from you. Call 656-5537. Coming events: Sept. 14 — bingo starts at 7:30 p.m.; Sept. 15 — Wednesday concerts begin at 2 p.m.; Sept. 18 — Sidney Film Association. Everyone welcome.

Jail for theft

Robert Arthur Sparling, 945 Downey Rd., North Saanich, was sentenced in Sidney provincial court Aug. 31 to four months in jail for theft over $200.

He was given concurrent sentences of 14 days for impaired driving, 14 days for refusing a breathalyzer test and three months for dangerous driving.

James Ian Mosely, 3880 Shelbourne, Victoria was fined $250 on Thursday for driving without insurance and $35 for driving without a licence.

Riding Show during August.

•Our Cats made well use of the programs and pool this summer at Panarama Recreation Centre and tournaments such as Dungeons and Dragons and Rubik's Cube were very popular. Now that the ice is back and hockey season is just around the corner, skating Panthers are out in droves.

Two great winners

Terry Hanna paid less than $1,000 for her horse, Solo Flight, eight years ago but today the horse is worth a lot more.

"He's irreplaceable to me," says a delighted Hanna after winning two gold medals riding Solo Flight in equestrian events at the B.C. Summer Games in Vernon.

Solo Flight — the stringy-looking colt who turned out to be a "delightful surprise" — has been a consistent winner at events now for many years. He was zone champ for B.C. Amateur Hunter for five years running, from 1977-1981, and Calgary zone champ in 1976.

He's an easygoing, good-tempered animal, has a good attitude, is quiet, enjoys his "job" and "it's not a fight to get a performance out of him," says his mistress.

Hanna, of 1632 Keating Cross Road, rides with Island Stables. She's spent a lot of time training Solo Flight and says now it's just a matter of keeping him in condition.

There could be many more wins in store for the treasured horse but in order to compete Hanna has to travel further afield to Toronto, California and Phoenix — and that's expensive. Competition in Alberta, Oregon and Washington is as much as I can afford, she says.

And prize money doesn't always compensate for the expense of travelling — Solo Flight took 10 firsts at Kamloops earlier this year for a mere $200.

Whatever Solo Flight may tackle in the future, Hanna meanwhile will see he stays fit and "keeps his hoof in."

Miles warns laws tougher on drivers

Several provisions of the Motor Vehicle Act have been changed to make things tougher for erring drivers — that's the word from Central Saanich police chief Bob Miles.

People who fail to stop when signalled to do so by police now face a minimum fine of $100 (maximum $2,000) or a minimum of seven days in jail. It will no longer be possible for judges to impose no fine and a single day in jail.

Impaired drivers now will automatically lose their drivers' licences for six months. Previously the term was three months when there was an accident involving injury or serious property damage.

Drivers whom police suspect of being under the influence will now find it more difficult to avoid a 24-hour driving prohibition.

They can still insist on a breathalyzer or blood test for alcohol, but the prohibition will stand if they show more than .05 per cent blood alcohol. The former requirement was .08 per cent.

And a driver who blows more than .08 also risks being charged under the criminal code with that offence as well as being suspended. Previously there could be no roadside suspension

Police chief Miles
... laws tougher

if a criminal code charge was laid.

Finally, police now are required to impound the vehicle of any driver suspected of driving with a suspended licence.

Previously they had authority to impound but were not required to do so. ("Suspected" means the computer record shows the licence is suspended, not just that the officer has suspicions.)

Every police department must have its critics, but Central Saanich police had none among 23 local businessmen who were questioned during a crime survey this summer.

To the question "What type of job is the municipal police force doing in your area?" 82 per cent of the businessmen said "good," and 17 per cent said "average." Not one said "poor".

With 251 residents asked the same question the department got an almost equally one-sided endorsement. Only one per cent said "poor", 15 per cent "average" and 84 per cent "good."

The survey was taken over a four-month period by three post-secondary students hired as part of a summer employment program funded by the federal solicitor general's office. They asked more than two dozen questions of each respondent during "in-depth" interviews.

Both businessmen and residents told researchers the most serious crime in Central Saanich is vandalism. For the businessmen theft is in second place, while for the public it is traffic violations. The two groups agreed again on the third most serious crime — breaking and entering.

Asked whether crime is increasing in the municipality, 56 per cent of the residents said it was, while 10 per cent thought it was decreasing. In contrast only 30 per cent of businessmen thought crime was increasing, 26 per cent thought it was decreasing.

Asked the same question about their own area of the municipality, however, only 27 per cent of the public and 22 per cent of the businessmen thought crime was increasing.

Both groups believed, by approximately 70 per cent, that there was less crime in their own neighbourhood than elsewhere in the municipality — regardless of what area they were in.

Police Chief Bob Miles points out statistics indicate there is actually no change taking place in the crime rate.

He suggested the impression of increasing crime everywhere except around home might be influenced by reports of crimes outside of Central Saanich.

Asked where they got their information about crimes, 46 per cent of businessmen and 60 per cent of the public said from newspapers. Second source in both cases was private conversation.

There was a very heavy preponderance of opinion in favor of a tougher approach to crime by the courts and more consideration for the victims of crime, and on most of these subjects the opinions of businessmen and residents were almost identical.

Asked if victims are given proper consideration in juvenile courts, more than 70 per cent said no. On the same question regarding adult courts about 60 per cent said no.

Asked to suggest changes, 23 per cent said courts were too lenient with offenders, 18 per cent wanted more consideration for victims, 10 per cent suggested harsher penalties for juveniles, and 8 per cent suggested repayment by the offender of the victim's loss.

Proposals for changed treatment of juveniles included publishing the names of offenders, lowering the age limit, and introducing corporal punishment. Chief Miles comments that an Ontario court has recently ruled that juvenile court must be open to the public.

More than 80 per cent of both groups thought the court system was not doing an adequate job of dealing with offenders. Among businessmen 59 per cent thought the courts were too lenient, 13 per cent thought they were too slow, 7 per cent thought offenders were overprotected and 7 per cent thought sentencing was inconsistent.

Only 39 per cent of residents thought the courts were too lenient.

Asked to suggest improvements in policing, 23 per cent of businessmen wanted more patrols, 16 per cent wanted more police to be more visible — three ways of expressing the same thing which add up to 52 per cent.

Residents, on the other hand, put more action on traffic at the top of their list, at 15 per cent, followed by 14 per cent for more manpower and 11 per cent for more patrols.

About 60 per cent in each group said they had contact with the police during the past year. Of these 93 per cent of businessmen and 90 per cent of the public said the result of that contact had been satisfactory.

Divorced women inferior?

Although changes in marital status are very common today, it is not common to discuss such changes openly. The subject of divorce is an uncomfortable one for many people. The tone of voice used in someone's divorce is similar to that used in discussing one's death. All too often the similarity is very real in that it is a death of a relationship. Many of our attitudes in marital change are so subtle, yet so influential that they have a strong influence on our behaviour.

Some of the basic considerations are:

- That marriage is good and deviation from it is bad.

- That permanence of relationships are good, that change is not.

- That divorce is a tragedy — and worse yet, a failure.

Worse because failure is seen as human error, not the will of fate. If there is failure, we must identify the person at fault and find them guilty.

Divorce is threatening to many people for another reason, in that it causes them to examine their own relationships. But change is change, not necessarily good or bad, but social attitudes make it difficult for individuals because of underlying assumptions.

Whilst both men and women suffer from these assumptions, it is the woman who has to bear the brunt of the burden. There is a stigma attached to the divorced woman that does not apply to a widow and it is related to a failure to "make a go of the relationship."

There is the suggestion that she is a "cast-off possession" or "used merchandise". Once divorced she is never again put in the category of single but is more often viewed as inferior.

Growth and change should rather be viewed as natural because individuals may grow in different directions long after they decided to marry. This growth, whether it be together or apart, should be viewed as natural and successful because what is most often more important than the relationship of the people involved is the people involved as persons.

Very often the individuals involved in a relationship are either forgotten or forsaken for the sake of the social institution. When partners in a relationship stop blaming each other for the supposed failure of the union they will be able to see each other more clearly as individuals with differing needs and goals.

If couples can accept that the original basis for the relationship no longer exists then they can go about the business of creating new relationships not built on blame and distrust. It then becomes possible to conduct the necessary business at hand whether it be financial, social, or family related.

By altering some of the basic assumptions about divorce, bitterness and misery need not be the inevitable results of divorce.

Do you have a problem, are you concerned with the state of your marriage, the behaviour of your children? Do you need help? George Kurbatoff is a psychologist living in Central Saanich. As a community service, he invites letters from concerned readers. Replies will be given through his regular, weekly column. Write: George Kurbatoff, c/o The Sidney Review, 9831 - 3rd Street, Sidney, P.O. Box 2070, V8L 3S5.

Knights to campaign

Victory Lodge, Knights of Pythias in Sidney, will start its fall schedule of meetings Sept. 15 says Chancellor Commander Robert L. Smith.

The Sidney Lodge meets regularly on the second and fourth Wednesday of the month at 7760-4th St.

Smith says the lodge plans to engage in a campaign to attract new members and will expand its charitable programme of providing financial help for cerebral palsy treatment centres.

Men aged 18 years and over who are interested in joining the oldest non-sectarian fraternal order in North America can obtain information by writing membership chairman W. Heiman, 9362 East Saanich or telephoning 656-3696. Other phone numbers are displayed on the door of the Knights of Pythias hall on 4th St.

"SUNBURNED OR S-O-N TURNED"

Most vacationers become, at least temporarily, "Sun-Worshippers." They covet the glow and the tan that results from exposure to the sun in the great out-of-doors.

It's fun to get out in the sun; but there is also danger in getting too much sun. Anyone sunburned knows the results — burning pain, headache, nausea, blisters, and peeling of skin. Too much sun can cause skin infections and even damage to internal organs of the body. So, instead of having "fun in the sun," some people become "done in the sun."

Sunburned is one thing, but to be "S-O-N turned" is still another. The sun is like a magnet that pulls life to itself. It creates growth. There is another kind of light for all seasons. This Light is spelled "S-O-N." The Bible calls Jesus Christ, "the Sun of Righteousness" (Mal. 4:2) and "the Light of the world" (John 8:12). He is God's Son who was born to dispel the darkness of sin and to draw us to God. He creates new life with God. He warms the soul of a person. And He causes one to grow Godward. To be "S-O-N turned" in Jesus is to have life now and forever with God. But the continual life in Christ, like any summer tan, can soon fade and be lost in time unless it is renewed and refreshed daily.

An eclipse of our natural sun used to terrify the ancients. A week at the lake without sun is sheer agony. But any day or week without the Son of God in our life can be eternally detrimental and fatal.

That's why we need to take time every day for exposure to the Son of God. Take a plunge into His Word! Breathe in the freshness of His forgiveness! Feel the invigorating power of His Spirit! Sense the excitement and the challenge as you learn to serve Him by serving others. Return from your summer vacation, not only with a healthy sun tan, but with the beautiful glow of the S-O-N of God. He can make your whole life rich with the treasures of God's love.

"For the Lord God is a sun and shield; He bestows favor and honor. No good thing does the Lord withhold from those who walk upright- (Psalm 84:11)

To you I have recourse from the depth of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present urgent petition, in return I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. Say three Our Fathers, three Hail Marys and Glorias. Publication must be promised. St. Jude pray for us and all who invoke your aid. Amen. This Novena has never been known to fail. This Novena must be said for nine consecutive days. Thanks, T.N. 510-36

Tax course in Sidney

Each year thousands of people are using their spare time to earn money as tax preparers in the growing field of income tax service — last year nearly 9,000 people learned to prepare income taxes at the H and R Block Income Tax School where the exclusive course, is taught in more than 100 communities across the country.

Morning, afternoon, and evening classes are available for the 1½-week, 81-hour course, which begins Sept. 16. Anyone may enrol, there are no restrictions or qualifications. The course is ideally suited for housewives, retired persons, teachers, or anyone wanting to increase his tax knowledge. Job interviews are available for qualified graduates of the course, however, there is no obligation to accept employment with Block or for Block to offer such employment.

Specially trained instructors teach current laws, theory, and application. The course is programmed to teach students increasingly complex problems as study progresses. Each phase is covered by classroom and practice problems, and students have an opportunity to actually prepare sample tax returns. Students find the course both interesting and challenging.

The modest fee for the course is tax deductible and covers all textbooks, supplies, and tax forms necessary for the completion of the course. Each graduate will receive a certificate.

Registration forms and brochures for the H and R Block Income Tax School are available by contacting the office at 9843 - 2nd St., Sidney, or call 656-2411.

North Saanich to fight action

North Saanich municipality finally received, on Sept. 1 official notice of the petition filed in B.C. Supreme Court by 10 residents seeking to quash two bylaws permitting marina development in Blue Heron Basin.

Former mayors Eric Sherwood, George Westwood, Trevor Davis and Paul Grieve are among the petitioners, along with former aldermen John Lapman and Dr. Dermid Pittman.

The petition cites several reasons why the bylaws are illegal, including bias or reasonable apprehension of bias by Ald. Nell North because she is a member of Sidney and North Saanich Yacht Club, which is to have mooring space in the development.

The municipality had seven days to respond stating that it will defend the action and Clerk Tony Green said Friday this would be done.

He said he would be consulting with the municipal solicitor as to whether filing of the action would affect the status of the bylaws pending a court decision.

Garage sale

The Community Counselling Centre, 9813 - 5th St., Sidney, plans a garage sale 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Sept. 18. Donations welcome, call 656-1247.

MEDIA MONITOR

By STEVE K. WALZ

Fall series increase parts for youngsters

The three major networks have increased their stock of young performers hoping that more youngsters will tune in to their prime-time products.

One reason why CBS, ABC and NBC have boosted their youth-oriented material may be due to the box-office successes of such films as "Porky's," "Fast Times at Ridgemont High," "E.T.," "Poltergeist" and "Shoot the Moon," all of which had performers as the Labor-teaux twins and Melissa Gilbert.

"Voyagers" — Meeno Peluce ("Best of the West") ABC

"Happy Days" — Heather O'Rourke ("Poltergeist")

"Star of the Family" — Kathy Malsnick CBS

"Square Pegs" — Amy Linker and Sara Jessica Parker ("Annie")

Shows now prominently featuring youngsters include NBC's "Facts of Life" (Nancy McKee, Lisa Whelchel), "Diff'rent Strokes" (Gary Coleman, Dana Plato and Todd Bridges), "Gimme a Break" (Karl Michaelsen and Lara Jill Miller), ABC's "Love Boat" (Jill Whelan) and CBS' "Archie's Place" (Danielle Brisebois) and "One Day at a Time" (Glen Scarpelli).

O.J. Simpson

OK O.J. — O.J. Simpson will star as a San Francisco-based private investigator in "Cocaine and Blue Eyes," an NBC-TV movie now filming in Los Angeles and San Francisco. Simpson, who is also the film's executive producer, plays a determined detective who, while seeking to locate the girlfriend of a deceased client, uncovers a drug-smuggling operation run by a prominent family.

Pam Dawber

ADD PAM — Pam Dawber co-star of "Mork and Mandy" has joined the cast of "Remembrance of Love," the forthcoming NBC-TV movie about a Holocaust survivor. Miss Dawber will play the daughter of series star Kirk Douglas, who accompanies his father to Israel, where he meets a young Israeli officer with whom she falls in love.

Quality higher at show

Although entries were down slightly from 1981, quality was higher at Sidney and Saanich Peninsula Garden Club's annual flower and vegetable show held Aug. 28 and 29 in Sanscha Hall.

Out of a total of 622 entries, the vegetable section was nearly double of last year, with most entries coming from the Saanich Peninsula, and strong support from Sooke and Victoria.

The high quality of the show is due to the activity of garden clubs in the various areas. Attendance at the meetings has been on the increase.

Winners: Grade aggregate for 1982 spring and summer shows (total points) - $25: donated by the club, won by E. Young; grand aggregate summer show - $10: donated by Mrs. Marie Wisenden, won by E. Young; high aggregate 16 years and under, $5: donated by the club, won by Tammy Jacobs.

Best arrangement - open - won by Frances Thompson, $5 donated by Dr. Jean Izatt; best arrangement - novice, $5 donated by Les Moore, won by Pat Caton; best arrangement - junior, $5 donated by club, won by Tammy Jacobs; best gladiolus in show, $5 donated by Dr. Jean Izatt, won by E. Young.
